Access by public transportation

From Paris, you can take a suburban SNCF train or the RER (zone 4) :

» By train : Transilien line L (Paris-St Lazare-Versailles Rive Droite) station Montreuil :

» The trip takes about 30 minutes from Paris Saint-Lazare station, or 15 to 20 minutes from La Défense. During the day there is a train every 15 minutes.

» Once arrived at the station Montreuil, you can take the bus (Phébus) 1 (direction "Université ") until the final station or walk (about 10 minutes) to the university.

» By train : Transilien line N (Montparnasse / Versailles Chantiers), station Versailles Chantiers :

» Once at Versailles Chantiers station, do like for the RER C (Bus 1).

» By RER C from Paris (or Massy-Palaiseau) to station Versailles Chantiers :

» Once at Versailles Chantiers, you can take the bus (Phébus) 1 (which also stops at Montreuil station) direction "Université". About 15 minutes of travel time.

» By RER C from Paris to the station Versailles Rive-Gauche :

» Once at Versailles Rive-Gauche, you can take the bus 1 direction University.

Access by car

» Visitors: people invited by services, departments and laboratories must report to the access barrier.

» Students: you cannot reach the campus by car. You have to park it in the "students" car park accross the avenue des États-Unis.
